Comments:

The Hakko MG Series Soldering Guns are basic plug-in gun type soldering irons that have a built-in manual solder feeding mechanism that is activated by pulling the trigger. The MG Series has been a long time part of the Hakko product lineup. These are fixed temperature stick irons that use older technology wire wound heating elements and specific MG Series Soldering Iron tips and feed nozzles. At this time, replacement parts for the MG Series Soldering Irons are still available and should be for the coming years.
